Indian Agent Vincent Colyer advises the Secretary of the Interior by telegraph from Camp Talarosa, via Santa Fe, that, posisted by Superintendent Pope and Agent Piper, he had examined the valley of Talarosa, with the view of making it an Indian reservation. He found it remote from white cettlements, surrrounded by ptains, filled with game, and containing plenty of wood and water, with sufficient arable land. Accordingly, under the authority pre-viously given, he has declared the valley, twenty miles wide and thirty miles long, a reservation for the southern roving Apaches, and instructed Agent Piper to remove the Agency from Cavado Alimosa as soon as practicable.

One meets them everywhere, from the cold, ice-bound summits of the Alps and through the Jura mountains down to the sweltering at-mosphere of Paris. Last Wednesday, Mr. Wash-burn, our Minister to France, took Governor Seward and his lady friends, and me and mine. out to Versailies, to visit "the court." The Governor and myself were introduced to M. Thiers, the President, and on his command were given seats in the diplomatic gallery to the exclusion of some of the foreign ministers. There was great pressure for admission, as it was the great day on which it was to be decided whether the term of the President and of the Legislative body as well, was to be prolonged. The debate in which the leading mer of the House part'cipated was a very angry and stormy one. Much as I have been accustomed to the want of proper decorum in our own Congress, I was not prepared for the almost ruffi anism of the leaders of the nation that lays claim to being the most polite and refined upon earth. I have seen the German Richstag and the French Corps Legislatif in session, both on great occasions and under trying circumstances, and have good opportunity to judge how far the one is the superior and the other the inferior of the Congress of the United States. I have also seen great numbers of the soldiers of both the nations. With these iwo our own must be assigned an intermediate grade. Discipline of the individual and of the

Where legislators cannot control their feelings and their passions, can it be expected of the common people who compose the army that they shall conduct themselves better than their rulers. The French army of today is a great mob. The Legislature is another, not so big, but more intensified—boiled down—as a Yankee would say. There are but twenty-three eats in the diplomatic gallery. Lord Lyons, the late British minister at Washington, but now accredited here, sat directly in front of me, and Prince Metternich, the Austrian minister, on my right, and other high dignitaries all around. I did not feel as proud of my then position as I do when at home, surrounded by the Treasury clerks, nor half as happy either."

tion by a two-thirds majority.

[Special Dispatch to The Star.] CHICAGO, Sept. 18, 1871 .- The Grand Lodge of the United States, I. O. O. F., met in this city, at Library Hall, to which the members of the body were c. corted from the Sherman House by the Grand Lodge of Illinois. An address of welcome was then delivered by the Hon. John Rogers, which was responded to by the Grand Site. Among those present are F. D. Stuart, Wm. R. McLean and John T. Given, of the District of Columbia; Hugh Latham, of Alexandria, Va.; James L. Ridgely and Joshua Vansant, of Baltimore, Md. After the admission of the new members, come fifty-two in number, the business of the session was entered upon.

The Grand Sire (F. D. Stuart, of Washington, D. C.,) presented his annual report. The Grand Sire congratulates the representatives on the auspicious circumstances of their reunion, and after speaking of the objects, aims and prospects of the order throughout the country, says: -" It is my privilege to report to you that unexampled presperity has rewarded our labors during the past year in every section of the general jurisdiction. Peace and concord, which have from our infancy characterized the institution amid all the extreme conflicts and tumults of the world, continue unbroken within our borders, and a generous spirit of emulation and rivalry prevails among the brethren to excel in the great cause of human benefaction. In no period of our history, whether we consider our numbers, our finances or our work of benevolence, have we had greater reason for several grand bodies will show that the net increase in membership will not vary far from 30,000, making an aggregate at this time of nearly 330,000; and the increase in revenue and disbursements for relief will be proportionate He adds:-"Comment is unnecessary; it is doubtful whether any secular organization in the world for benevolent objects will surpass this exhibit, and it is believed that few, if any, will be able to equal it."

Under the head of finances he says the Grand Treasurer assures him that the financial condition of the Grand Lodge has never been in a more gratifying condition; all the appropriations made at the last session having been promptly paid, leaving in his hands sufficient to justify his investment of $6,712.50. The aggregate invested securities now held by the Grand Lodge The Grand Sire refers to having appointed Bro. S. D. Morse as Special Deputy Graud Sire for Germanic Europe, but says he will not occupy their time "in detailing the splendid fruits which have rewarded his unwearied labors in this behalf, other than merely to state that four lodges have been organized by him in Europe, and one encampment." He commends to the favorable notice of the Grand Lodge the valuable co-operation of everal public functionaries-Barron Gerolt, for bringing the institution to the notice of his gov-ernment and endorsing its character as a m ral, law-abiding society; and to Minister Bancroit, for personally submitting their mission in Ger many to the proper authorities; and to the Prussian government, which promptly removed every hindrance and obstacle in the way.

Some space is devoted to his visitations South and North, and he speaks of the condition in which he found the order in the States, Territories and provinces, referring especially to the prosperity of the lodges and encampments of New Orleans. Dispensations have been issued to two grand encampments, eight subordinate encampments, and four lodges. Under the head of Degree of Rebekah, he says it should be universal-"it should not be left to the State grand bodies to adopt it or not, at their pleasure. Every lodge in the Union should be in possession of it, to render it universally serviceable and effective for good. It cannot be denied that it has already proved to be a great benefit in many sections of the country. * * * I recom-mend that regularly constituted Rebekah De-gree lodges be authorized to pass laws admitting to membership males and females by a majority vote." He urges the importance of the press of the order. He expects the rder to enlarge its usefulness by establishing schools, asylums and libraries and refers to the General Relief Associations and charity funds as having proved of incalculable benefit where-ever they have been established. The libraries of Baltimore, San Francisco, Washington, Boston and other places show the appreciation of the brothern. He notices the deaths of Representa-ive Escavaille and several P. G. Reps., includ-ing J. R. Piper and John Mills of this city. The atter was one of the early pioneers of the order, having represented the Grand Lodge of the District in 1837. FROM EUROPE TO-DAY.

He says twelve boulevards radiate from it. One is impressed at once with the fact that our own Washington was planned after this city. Now, after more than seventy years, we are just learning how to change our broad and dusty streets into beautiful boulevards like those of Parls. EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, CITY HALL, NEW YORK, Sept. 16, 1871: My dear Sir: The action of Richard B. Conpolly in retiring from the discharge of official duties for a term of five months as created a vacancy in the office of comptroller of the city of New York, as I am advised, and believe. The public interests demand that it should be filled immediately by some gentleman of acknowledged ability not directly connected with local politics and whose name commands the respect and confidence of the people of the city, State and county, as well as of the financial centers in Europe. The credit of the city has been assailed, it must be defended and maintained. The administration of its financial affairs must be placed beyond even the shadow or susplcion of an intrigue. This is due alike to its creditors, and to our citizens, all of whom alike, have an interest in its good name and success, and look forward to an early completion of its great works of improvement now in progress, with the most important of which you have been for a year past preminently connected. Your extended reputation, and your varied experience in the execution of public and private trusts of great magnitude, especially fit you for this position, and at this time, white your entire freedom from all local and political complications will insure almost unqualified public approval of your ac-ceptance and of the responsibilities which belong to it, I therefore tender you the office of comptroller, and carnestly urge you to accept it. I sm aware that your full refirement from the important position you hold in the department of docks will become a matter of great regret, not only to yourself, but to the department and the public. Yet its operations will be promoted rather than impeded by your acceptance; because while your administration of the finances of the city will inure to the benefit of the dock improvements, in common with all the other departments, and save all from the danger which now threatens them, your advice and counsel and supervision must still be extended to whomsoever shall occupy your place in that department, should you cease to hold it. Green, are engaged in discharging the duties of the Comptroller's office and holding conferences with their lawyers and prominent members of the reform party. The general impression is that they occupy an impregnable position, and that the efforts to dis-lodge them must be illegal, and will recoil on the originators. The secret committee of 70 have been in session from an early hour, and have devised measures for the support and protection of Green. Ex-Mayor Have meyer has made arrangements with the legal banks to have all checks drawn by Green duly honored. Charles O'Conor is now engaged in writing an opinion in favor of Con-

Gakey Hall, Mayor-Sir: I have read in the morning papers only your letter of this date, and beg leave thus promptly to inform you that, as advised, I have not, either in fact or equivalent, resigned the office of comptroller of the city of New York. I deny the authority of law in the Mayor to exercise the power atempted by your favor, and in partial support of the denial quote the words of your former communication: "I [the Mayor] cannot sus-pend any head of department, not even pending on investigation. I can only prefer charges to the Cemmon Pleas, who alone can remove after a considerable time for trial." My previously announced determination no at present to retire from my official position is still unchanged. By the appointment of Andrew H. Green, Esq., as deputy Comptroller I have endcavored to guard the public interests commit-ed to my care. In such effort, while calling critical attention to the events of the past forty-

The brute tied his step-son upon the track of the railroad for the purpose, he said, of giving him a whipping, and then leaving the boy tied, went into the woods to out some switches, (or rather under that pretence,) and while there the second down pretence,) and while there the second down freight tsain passed, running over his victim, cutting one of his lega off entirely and terribly mangling the other. THE NEW YORK ABORTIONISTS ARRAIGNED.

The notorious Rosenzweig and Mrs. Burns were arraigned yesterday before the Court of General Sersions, to answer to indictments of manslaughter found against them by the Grand Jury. Rosenzweig attracted universal attention as he came up to the bar. He wore a sullen expression, and still bears the marks upon his left eye inflicted by his cell mate, "Blindy" Winslow. His counsel interposed a plea of "not guilty," with the stipulation that it should be withdrawn if it should be found on examination that a special plea could be put in. A similar plea was special plea could be put in. A similar plea was made in Mrs. Burn's case, which will be tried next Thursday.
